FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION ENERGY MORTGAGE PROGRAM

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) offers an Energy Mortgage Program to help homebuyers and homeowners finance the cost of adding energy efficiency features to a new or existing house as part of a refinancing mortgage. The mortgage loan is funded by a separate lending institution, but is insured by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development as well as the Federal Housing Administration. This encourages lenders to make credit available to borrowers who would not otherwise qualify for conventional loans on affordable terms. The cost of the energy improvements and estimate of the energy savings must be determined by a home energy rating system (HERS) or an energy consultant. In order to qualify, applicants must meet standard FHA credit qualifications. The borrower must be able to finance an upfront (3.5%), as well as annual, premium. The property must be between 1 and 4 units.

Financing Options for Affordable Housing Properties

L.E.A.N. MULTI FAMILY ENERGY RETROFITS

Facilities owned by public housing authorities and non-profit organizations with income eligible residents can apply for the Low Income Multi-Family Program. Non-institutional facilities with 5 or more units owned or operated by a non-profit or public housing authority can qualify. LEAN helps applicants manage the project from start to finish. Contractors are paid, through utility funded grants, for all effective measures, providing residents free energy efficient upgrades.

FHA AND FANNIE MAE GREEN REFINANCE PLUS PROGRAM

In May2011, the Green Refinance Plus Program was started as a funding source for energy retrofits in affordable housing properties. Properties that are 10 or more years old may refinance their loans, with 5% or more going toward energy retrofits. Applicants must go through a Green Property Needs Assessment to participate, but once the assessment is performed they can refinance their loans while improving the environmental quality of their buildings, and not to mention save money.
